Write about 100 to 150 words in the following topic: Do you ever buy things that you don't need? Why?

I must admit that I sometimes buy things that I do not need but, who doesn't? Generally and throughout the year, I only purchase those items that I need, but when summer arrives and the shop windows are invaded with the "sales" signs, I cannot help but go shopping for clothes with my friends.

And it is true that I do not need many of the things that I buy during sales season but I think that temptation is hard to resist when you see a beautiful skirt or blouse half the price that it used to cost.

On the whole, I think that overspending is a mistake, but it does not hurt to indulge oneself every now and then in buying something you do not need but you can enjoy.
